

Access to a clean toilet is a basic human right yet thousands of UK workers are denied this.

Unite has had many stories from workers across every sector from finance to construction where workers have had to ask for permission to go to the toilet, are timed on toilet breaks or do not have access to a toilet at all. This is simply not acceptable and Unite is demanding toilet dignity for all UK workers.

What toilet dignity should look like

-  Access to clean gender specific lockable toilets
-  Toilet roll provided
-  Access to sanitary waste bins that are regularly cleaned and emptied
-  Access to clean handwashing facilities including soap and hot and cold running water
-  Access at your own liberty without having to ask permission or have your toilet break recorded.
